DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The information disclosure statement filed February 13, 2004 fails to comply with 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2), which requires a legible copy of each U.S. and foreign patent; each publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; and all other information or that portion which caused it to be listed. It has been placed in the application file, but the information referred to (Foreign documents) therein has not been considered.

Drawings

2. The drawings are objected to as failing to comply with 37 CFR 1.84(p)(5) because they do not include the following reference character(s) mentioned in the description: Elements "125", "235", "235a", "435b", "520" and "520a" could not be located in the drawings. Element "440" could not be located in the specification. Corrected drawing sheets are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The replacement sheet(s) should be labeled "Replacement Sheet" in the page header (as per 37 CFR 1.84(c)) so as not to obstruct any portion of the drawing figures. If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Specification

3. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On page 10, element "245" is disclosed as being a "third document" and a "third document window".

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 9 recites the limitation "the identification folder" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

Claim Objections

6. Claim 9 is objected to because of the following informalities:

In line 2, "fasted" appears to be incorrect.

Line 2 appears to be incorrect as written.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. Claims 1-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Zapawa (5,784,816) in view of Moeller et al. (6,099,943).

Zapawa discloses a protective ticket holder comprising a first sheet of material (65); a second sheet of material (45) fastened to the first sheet (see col. 4, lines 63-65), the first and second sheets forming a pocket (71) to removably hold a document (see col. 4, lines 66-67 through col. 5, lines 1-2); an identification holder (80) configured to receive a personal identification document and fastened to the pocket by a pressure sensitive adhesive (88) (as seen in figures 5 and 9).

Zapawa discloses the claimed invention except for explicitly disclosing the identification holder being removably fastened to the pocket.

Moeller et al. disclose that it is known in the art of binding that pressure sensitive adhesives may be permanent, removable or repositionable (see col. 4, lines 21-36). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify Zapawa's invention to include the pressure sensitive adhesive being removable for removably fastening the identification holder to the pocket, as taught by Moeller et al., so that the identification holder can be separated from the ticket holder to be presented for identification verification.

Regarding claim 2, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., disclose the second sheet being fastened by three edges (70) to form the pocket (71) (see col. 4, lines 63-65).

Regarding claim 3, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the claimed invention except for the material being paper. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide any required material for the sheets as deemed necessary by the end user, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Furthermore, applicant has failed to disclose that the type of material used for the sheets is critical to the invention.

Regarding claim 4, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the material of at least one of the first and second sheets is plastic (see col. 4, lines 10-12 and 30-32).

Regarding claim 5, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., disclose the claimed invention except for the material being leather. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide any required material for the sheets as deemed necessary by the end user, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416. Furthermore, applicant has failed to disclose that the type of material used for the sheets is critical to the invention.

Regarding claim 6, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the identification holder being formed from a sheet 5, lines 23-66).

Regarding claim 7, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the identification holder being formed from a pocket (87).

Regarding claim 8, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses at least a portion of the identification holder being transparent (see col. 5, lines 61-66).

Regarding claim 9, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., disclose the claimed invention except for identification holder being removably fastened to the second sheet by adhesive (88) on an edge of the identification holder as set forth in the above rejections to claim 1 (see figure 5).

Regarding claim 10, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the identification holder including transparent plastic (see col. 5, lines 62-66).

Regarding claim 11, Zapawa, as modified by Moeller et al., discloses the identification holder being configured such that a personal identification document fits at least partially within the holder (the holder is a ticket holder and, therefore, holds documents) and the wherein the personal identification document is at least partially visible (since the holder is made of transparent material, the document would be visible therethrough).

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited references disclose document holders.
